Moving Forward

While musicals open up other magical worlds for audiences and performers alike, there's so much more to explore creatively. That's why the Queensville Players is now embracing a wider array of entertainment pursuits—dramas and other productions deserve their spotlight, too! If you have an idea to pitch, we want to hear from you.

Join the Fun!

There are so many ways to be a part of this creative community: come see a high-quality show, share your talent by competing in the QP Factor, be a sponsor, volunteer behind the scenes (costume creation, set-building), or audition for an upcoming production.

Community Partnerships

Striving to improve lives in our community, the Queensville Players is proud of its annual production of the QP Factor—an exciting talent competition that lets local residents show off their talents and compete for prize money. The best part? A substantial portion of money raised goes to the Sandgate Women's Shelter to help empower women and children who have suffered from the damaging effects of abuse.

The Queensville Players also offers theatre classes for youth, giving them hands-on experience that promotes creativity, self-confidence, and inclusiveness.

Our History

It all started in 1981 when the talented Dr. Margaret Arkinstall had a dream of creating a theatre group that would perform Gilbert and Sullivan musicals. Premiering in the basement of the Queensville United Church (hence the name), the Queensville Players eventually found its permanent home in the Stephen Leacock Theatre in Keswick, Ontario.
